REPORTER'S REFLECTIONS

—The trial of the SDS 12 set for Judge Julius Hoffman's court may not come off, thinks William Kuntzler, lawyer for the Chicago 7, because the dozen defendants are in hiding and he suspects the law under which they are charged will be declared unconstitutional before they are found and brought to trial.

The SDS 12 case stems from the violence which erupted in Chicago's Loop on an October, 1969, Saturday afternoon, caused by the militant faction of the Students for a Democratic Society, the Weathermen.

The Weathermen and the Chicago 7 were both charged under the law which makes it a crime to conspire to cross state lines to incite a riot.

Kuntzler believes the appeals of the convictions of the Chicago 7 will result in the law being declared unconstitutional.

The 51-year-old New York lawyer claims it is a mistake for Judge Hoffman to accept the assignment to hear the SDS case because of his involvement and attitudes in the Chicago 7 trial.

Kuntzler conceded "by simple rotation Judge Hoffman's name may have come up, but no one will understand why it is that he is assigned to hear the only two conspiracy riot trials in history."

If there is a Weatherman trial, Kuntzler said, "it could be the quietest in history or it could be a shambles."

He claimed it all depends on what the judge does and how the defendants react.

Kuntzler denied the Chicago 7 defense tactics were attacks on the judicial system, and argued "I have nothing against the judicial system, what we object to is how it is applied."

"Our court system claims to administer equal justice but does not judge equally."

Other Kuntzler comments at a press conference Thursday at Northern Illinois University:

—The effect of the Chicago 7 trial is the creation of a state of mind for a frank and open appeal to young people to show them it ushered in the age or decade of resistance and closed the age of protest.

—Police represent the system society wants preserved and it is their job to prevent disruptions.

—Police are not the cause of the problem we seek to correct, but when they are called in, violence may erupt.

—Police do not beat as many heads in capturing a liquor store thief as they do in the street or on a college campus.

—The silent majority are the nonvocal middle class of Americans who vote and who fear both right and left wing movements and who want to keep intact a world that no longer exists.

—He agrees with a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling which declared an unruly defendant may be gagged, taken from the courtroom, or held in contempt of court.

—He does not agree the ruling applies to Bobby Seale. The high court's ruling came on a case of an insane or irrational defendant, Kuntzler maintained and "It does not say how to deal with a defendant who is raising constitutional questions."

Kuntzler is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Yale and was graduated from Columbia University Law School with high honors. He was an Army major in World War II and won the Bronze Star.

Since 1961 he has chiefly defended persons arrested in civil rights demonstrations, Black Panthers and members of the New Left.

Most who read this column, including its writer, cannot agree with Kuntzler's militant radicalism but his is among the voices being heard today in America.

Daring Moon Mission Is 'Go'

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—For Jim Lovell, it was old hat. But for Fred Haise and Jack Swigert it was a new experience although they had trained for it for years.

The crewmen of America's third lunar landing expedition began their day at 8:58 a.m. EST and followed the traditional launch morning timetable for a 246,524-mile journey scheduled to culminate Wednesday night with a daring landing in a valley in the moon's highlands.

Lovell, the commander, was making his fourth-and final flight in space and his second flight to the moon. He had gone through the elaborate countdowns before as a pilot aboard Gemini 7 and 12 and the navigator for the historic Christmas voyage of Apollo 8 around the moon in 1968.

But today was really the time he had been waiting for since joining the astronaut corps in 1962. "This," he said recently, "is sort of the buildup of everything I've done before."

Haise is a veteran test pilot who has been in the wings as a backup crewman for two moon missions but this was his first chance to do it himself. For Swigert, being a backup pilot paid off. He is doing something he probably never even dreamed possible a few days ago.

The three crewmen went through a long moonship piloting rehearsal Thursday and another one Friday morning that proved to Lovell that Swigert could step in for Ken Mattingly who was grounded for fear he would break out with the measles in space.

"Jim felt very comfortable flying with Jack," reported one official after the last-minute substitution decision was made.

With the "go" decision, technicians worked through the night priming Apollo 13's towering Saturn 5 rocket for its planned 2:13 p.m. EST launching.

There was early concern about the weather, but it improved during the early hours of launch day. A high layer of clouds blanketed the launch site, but weathermen gave the launch crew a favorable forecast.

If all went well, Lovell, Swigert and Haise would spend the next three days coasting to the moon, and go into orbit around it at midnight Tuesday.

While Swigert soloed in orbit, Lovell and Haise planned to touch down in the foothills of the moon's highlands at 9:55 p.m. EST Wednesday.

The two surface explorers were to blast off from the moon Friday morning, rejoin Swigert and break away from the grasp of lunar gravity Saturday afternoon, splashing down in the Pacific Ocean April 21.

Mattingly, who had trained for the mission for nine months, was bitterly disappointed about the eleventh-hour replacement. But chief astronaut Donald K. Slayton said he "jumped in like a beaver" to help Swigert get ready today despite the letdown.

Mattingly remained at the moonport and Slayton left him on his own today. Also on hand for the launching was Lovell's wife, Marilyn, who has seen her husband prepared for three previous spaceflights—including man's first flight to the moon.

Apollo 11 and 12 landed in easy-to-reach flatlands last year, but Apollo 13 is targeted for a descent into the foothills of the moon's rugged mountains.

Labor Crises Are Continuing

By United Press International

The nation's labor crises continued into the weekend today with prospects dim for solutions in many cases. In fact, the situation threatened to worsen.

Chicago trucking companies and their union drivers squared off for a showdown on local pay rates—a battle regarded as a key test of proposed national wage agreement.

The air traffic controllers'

"sick-out" dispute went back into court for another round of legal fencing designed to end the 17-day-old deadlock.

The White House looked anxiously for reactions to a congressionally imposed settlement on four railroad unions this week. Some pickets were observed. There were fears of wildcat strikes by angry union members.

Congress prepared to hold hearings next week on President Nixon's proposal to raise the price of first class stamps from six to 10 cents to help pay for a 14 per cent pay raise for postal employees his administration negotiated with unions.

In New York City, unions threatened to go on strike because of wage disputes with the city's four major daily newspapers. The New York Times announced Friday it was feeling the economic effects of a work slowdown and might be forced to suspend operations this weekend. The Newspaper Guild said it was ready to strike the New York Post. The Daily News and the Long Island Press were the other two papers involved in the negotiations with some 13,000 employees.

The stakes are high in all of the disputes.

Many Chicago trucking companies locked out their drivers Friday, hoping to avoid signing a three-year contract giving the drivers $1.65 an hour in raises. A tentative national agreement with the Teamsters union in Washington provided a $1.10 an hour increase.

Teamsters walked off their jobs in Buffalo, N.Y., and wildcat strikers continued in Los Angeles and St. Louis, Mo. Six thousand Detroit area Teamsters were off the job against the orders of their leaders.

The Chicago unions bargain independently from the national Teamster leadership.

F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO), said he felt the controllers may make "a gesture" in response to the government's approval of a court plan to set up an independent panel of doctors to decide whether the controllers were sick. But he gave no details as he prepared to appear before U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart.

Bailey said earlier one of the major roadblocks to full settlement of the dispute was a damage suit filed against PATCO by the Air Transport Association, which represents the major domestic airlines. This week, the airlines claimed the sick-out has cost them $50 million.

Roost on Ship

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI)—Charlie the stowaway chick faces an involuntary career at sea on a cross-channel car ferry.

The tiny chick was found aboard the car ferry "Viking" at Southampton, but Britain's ministry of agriculture classified him as livestock and cited regulations forbidding his importation.

The French, at the other end of the run, have similar regulations. A spokesman for the shipping line said, "We'll make him the ship's mascot and rechristen him if he turns out to be a hen."

Tollway Officials at C of C Meeting

About 120 persons attended the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Friday to hear tollway officials discuss the proposed East-West Tollway extension from Aurora to Rock Falls. Pictured, from the left, are C. A. Benowicz, chief engineer for the tollway authority; Arthur Stone, representing Knoerle, Bender, Stone and Associates, consulting engineers; Lou Kasper, tollway authority secretary, and George Guderly executive administrator of the tollway authority. Benowicz said "tight money" has held up selling the authority's bonds to finance the tollway extension, and Guderly said it is expected they will be sold and construction will begin early in 1971.

Pass Liberalized Abortion Laws

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Liberalized abortion laws were on their way to the desks of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Alaska Gov. Keith H. Miller today, while advocates of such revised laws speculated whether medical facilities will be able to handle the demands they may bring.

Within minutes after the New York State Senate approved 31-26 a bill to permit abortions with almost no restrictions, Rockefeller's office said Friday he would sign it.

The fate of the Alaska bill, passed 26-12 in the House after Senate approval Thursday, was less certain. Miller, a Methodist whose wife is a Roman Catholic, has said he was very much opposed to a change in the current law. He left open the question of whether he would veto the measure, however.

Busy, Productive Week for Con-Con Delegates

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest marched into a committee meeting carrying a three-month-old fetus in a jar to dramatize his position on abortion.

A committee voted to put a ceiling on the state income tax and to lift the limit on state indebtedness.

Another committee said no to public money for parochial schools.

It was one of the busiest weeks the sixth Illinois constitutional convention has had since it began in December and one of the most productive in terms of action taken.

Some members of con-con's bill of rights committee were shocked when the Rev. Francis X. Lawlor, a conservative Catholic priest and member of the committee, showed up with the fetus.

Lawlor told the committee members that the remains of the child were meant to dramatize his belief that life begins at the moment of conception and that a fetus should have the same constitutional protection as persons after birth.

The stunt by Lawlor was ineffective.

The committee rejected 6-4 his proposal to include a tough stand against abortion in any constitution submitted to the voters.

The convention's revenue committee voted to place a ceiling of 4 per cent on the state income tax charged individuals and one of 6.6 per cent on the rate charged corporations.

If approved by the full convention and the voters, the ceiling would be effective until July 1, 1979, after which the General Assembly could raise the limit.

The revenue committee also voted to lift the restrictions on state indebtedness.

The present constitution prohibits the state from going more than $250,000 into debt without the approval of the voters in a referendum.

This debt ceiling has been criticized by leaders of both political parties on the grounds that it unnecessarily hobbles needed state projects.

Although the committee recommended that the ceiling be lifted it did not go as far as some persons wished.

Many of the critics had hoped the committee would recommend a relatively easy debt procedure.

Although committee members said they wanted the debt limit lifted, they voted to impose certain other restrictions.

Under the new procedure all debts would be subject to a vote of the General Assembly in two successive sessions and to a two-thirds vote of he voters casting ballots on the question in a referendum.

Some observers believed that in certain situations it would be more difficult for the state to incur debt under the new rules than it was under the old.

The convention's education committee voted to keep the current constitutional prohibition on aid to nonpublic schools.

Although in some ways the vote was a blow to those who desire such aid, it was not an irretrievable defeat.

Many backers of aid to nonpublic schools, which for the most part means parochial schools, think the best way to accomplish their end is through passage of a bill in the General Assembly.

Such a bill, they believe, would be upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, despite the current state constitutional ban.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has proposed $29 million in aid for nonpublic schools in fiscal 1972.

Protesting Census

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—The census form is guilty of sexism, according to Mimi Kaprolat of the National Organization of Women.

She wrote Friday to Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans to complain that a married woman must identify herself as "wife of the head."

"This isn't fair, Miss Kaprolat said, because a married man isn't allowed to check a box for 'husband of head.'"

She complained married women should not be referred to as "wife of" when the census form doesn't allow reference to "husband of."

"For the census form to refer to women as 'wife of the head,'" Miss Kaprolat said, is "insulting to the dignity of female human beings."

The Doctor Says

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: Please go into some detail about X rays. Our dentist X rays our teeth every six months. This includes my two children, 5 and 8 years. Are X rays harmful for children? And are X rays necessary every six months? — Carol J.

ANSWER: Much has been written, here and elsewhere, about possible harm from dental X rays. But because of continuing interest, let's review current beliefs.

Two "prestigious scientists" at the AEC's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at Livermore, Calif., have only this week publicly stated that "... level of radiation poses health problems." Therefore, "no X-ray dose is acceptable since the smallest dose can produce mutations (irreversible changes) in body cells."

Beginning with that controversial, but widely held belief, here are some suggested guidelines for use of dental X rays.

1. Patients should not be routinely X-rayed. And, full-mouth multiple X rays should be limited to special situations.

2. Children and pregnant women should not be exposed to dental X rays unless shown to be vital to their health. And then patients should be protected with a leaded apron. This is required by law in California and Wisconsin.

But it also must be recognized that dental X rays are important diagnostic tools in preventing dental disease and in maintaining dental health. Therefore, use of X rays cannot for the present be entirely eliminated.

Many molecular biophysicists are unequivocal concerning danger from exposure to even the smallest amount of dental X rays and often refuse them, sometimes unwisely, for themselves and their families. Yet they are often little concerned with radiation which they themselves produce and to which many an innocent person is exposed.

For instance, it was recently revealed that a nuclear experimental lab located on the edge of a large university had "sprung a leak." The leak was of a magnitude large enough to disrupt unrelated experiments in other labs at least as far away as a few hundred yards.

Thus, the "leak" exposed people living and working within this radius to radiation over and above the amounts they are usually exposed to from bomb-testing, atmosphere, diagnostic medical and dental X rays, TV sets, etc.

Officially, the "leak" was only 5 per cent of the minimal dose harmful to humans, whatever that means.

Was it, in fact, harmful to people living in the area? No, say the scientists, but they hurriedly added a few hundred tons of concrete to the already-thick walls of the leaky laboratory.

These "leaks" also interfere with TV reception in the area and that's less scary but more of a nuisance. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Mass Rally Scheduled In Chicago

A mass rally has been scheduled for 7 p.m. today at Engineer's Building, 205 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, to protest the cuts in Governor Ogilvie's proposed budget for fiscal year 1970-71. The rally is sponsored by the Illinois State Employees AFSCME Council 34 and its affiliated Mental Health local unions in the greater Chicago area. The AFSCME International President, Jerry Wurf and Secretary-Treasurer, Joseph Ames will be flying in from Washington, D.C., to attend the rally.

Mental associations, community groups and concerned community leaders have been invited. The purpose of the meeting is to involve the total community in an effort to have the $31,000,000 cut-back in the Mental Health fund restored.

Roger Frazer, director of the Council 34 state organization, said the budget cut, if allowed, will send the patient care and treatment program for the mentally ill in Illinois on the way back to the custodial days of the mid 1950's. Over 1,700 employees will be fired and hundreds of patients will be transferred . . . disrupting programs throughout the state, Frazer stated.

Verbal Overkill

Critics of government plainly have a vital role as our permanent skeptics-in-residence, questioning everything, keeping useful curb on the immense power of entrenched authority. But who watches the critics to keep them responsible?

We are suffering one of the worst periods of verbal overkill in our history (studded since Washington's day with political exaggeration). Beyond doubt a good share of the blame for today's excesses and misjudgments falls upon the critics themselves, not least the frenetic liberals who seem to think they deserve a charmed life.

Right now they are having their usual field day, assailing the "military-industrial complex," leaping with glee on every error, transgression or expression of over-optimism by the military relating to Vietnam, Laos and elsewhere.

In the domestic sphere, every social ill not cured by President Nixon, during his first 15 months in office — poverty, bad housing, bad schools, racial and social unrest, crime — is being tossed smack in his face.

Of course, this administration, like any other in power any time, is fair game. The President and his men come in on a promise to perform and must be measured accordingly.

The incumbents, whoever they are, always turn out to be far more thin-skinned than they say they will be. Their instinct is highly self-protective, and they have the capacity to conceal much error.

But the outside attackers, possibly because they feel so strongly their relative "power disadvantage," cannot seem to resist gross excess on their own side.

One could go back a long way to catalogue their errors, some of which they cling to with the tenacity of a religious faith. Liberal critics, especially, have a high threshold of resistance to contrary evidence, no matter how often it is placed before them.

For instance, they invest mystical faith in "negotiations" with adversary powers, whether hot or cold war or merely threat be at stake.

During the early years of the Vietnam war, "negotiation" was their magic incantation. Talks finally began in spring, 1969, and they have proved among the most unproductive in history. Fashionable, the critics today blame Nixon. But the unassailable fact is that the prior Democratic regime did no better.

Few doctrinaire liberals seem even faintly acquainted with the agonies of the 1951-53 "negotiations" over the Korean war.

Having twice read full accounts of those talks, I can say flatly that in the whole span the Red negotiators never made one move or concession in a spirit of good will.

The 1954 Geneva accords ending the first IndoChina war, today viewed mistily with a kind of reverence by antiwar critics, were in fact a jerry-built structure erected in irresponsible haste.

The 1962 Geneva accords over Laos broke down quickly when the Reds pulled out of a "tripartite" government they found they could not dominate, and resumed seeking their objectives by war.

But no evidence discourages the mystical liberals. In earlier post-World War II days, their great cry for "summit meetings" of the big powers was renewed as fast as each one failed.

They are also great proponents of international control commissions and other kinds of international supervision. In some places, such mechanisms succeed. But in critical zones like Korea and Laos, control commissions — haphazard always by the veto power of a Communist member and the unco-operative behavior of the Red adversary — have been colossal failures.

In the military realm itself, even as they ferret out incredible misjudgments and misstatements by the authorities, most of the critics commit their own serious errors. Most are woefully ignorant of Vietnam. They misunderstand and often misrepresent the uses of airpower. They hate war, but their own overkill gives edge to those who lead it.

Bent Twig Strategy

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Recently this reporter received a letter from a close Japanese friend who teaches chemistry at a Tokyo university.

"ACCEPT MY apology for not answering sooner," the message read, "but I have been locked out of my office for the past month by demonstrating students and so did not receive your note until now."

Thus far this may sound like an American college scene. But there's a difference. In that difference may be a portent of things to come here.

First, as background, note that this Japanese professor is very close to his students (most of the time) and in on many of their discussions.

Second, although violent student confrontations and student cells have afflicted Japanese universities for several decades, my friend's university has until now been little affected. The background of the change is the reason for this column.

THIS JAPANESE university had over the years worked out a mutually satisfactory relationship between the faculty, students and administrators.

But meanwhile, the Japanese extremists, who had started out infiltrating college faculties, shifted their emphasis to the high schools, because "teen-agers are more impressionable." Many of Japan's high schools were taken over by teachers who openly promote "leftist" activism.

This means, my friend writes, that every new freshman class is heavily infiltrated with indoctrinated young men and women who will not co-operate whatever the university does. "Their minds are 'fixed' before we get them. So what can we do?" Numbers are well-trained in the techniques of disruption and conditioned to violence.

Farther south in Asia, Viet-Cong recruiters likewise aim at bringing young men and women into their organization at 14, 15, 16 and 17, again on the theory that these younger minds are most ready for indoctrination and most ready to break away from home.

(IN VILLAGES THE VC control, of course, the indoctrination begins much earlier. The most "promising" youth are sent to live at training centers before they reach their teens.)

So now take the United States.

This reporter's contacts at recent national meetings of the militant student and youth groups report this year a steep step up in participation by high schoolers. Never before have boys and girls this young been seen in such numbers. Never before have they taken such an active role.

Now run a random sampling of high schools in your neighborhood. You will be surprised at the percentage which have active militant groups. Not discussion groups. But cells promoting violence.

AFTER YOUR SURVEY,

do some thinking on these points:

The Japanese and Vietnamese experience is that high school-trained militants are more prone to emotional violence.

Students are easier to reach emotionally at these teen ages.

A high school student has quite a few years to operate and perfect his techniques before reaching maturity. Inefficient leadership is weeded out. A high school base thus gives more continuity to a militant movement.

SHORT RIBS BY FRANK O'NEAL

Home Builders' Warranty Tests

ALONG WITH high interest rates, rising construction costs and a tight home building market, home builders and contractors are now finding out they've got another problem to grapple with — they may be held liable for damages in connection with improperly built new homes, says Commerce Clearing House.

More and more, courts across the country are holding that implied warranty is an appropriate theory of recovery where at the time of purchase, building on a home had not begun or the home was still in the course of construction.

Under such circumstances, CCH said, there's an implication of law that the house upon completion will be reasonably fit for the purpose for which it is required, that is, a human dwelling.

JUST RECENTLY, the Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the allowance of recovery for breach of warranty because of the improper installation of the heating and air-conditioning ductwork by the home builder. The court's comment was cogent:

"Twenty years ago one could hardly find any American decision recognizing the existence of an implied warranty in a routine sale of a new dwelling. Both the rapidity and the unanimity with which the courts have recently moved away from the harsh doctrine of caveat emptor (Let the buyer beware) in the sale of new houses are amazing, for the law has not traditionally progressed with such speed."

A VIRTUAL LITANY of litigation has been raised against home builders and contractors for faulty workmanship, said CCH, and the trend is toward more cases being brought against the builders of improperly constructed new homes.

In Colorado home buyers recovered damages against the builder-seller after expansion and contraction of the soil beneath the dwelling caused damage within it. Another contractor in Colorado lost out to new home owners when clay soil beneath the foundation damage it and the walls and floor. In still a third Colorado soil case, the home buyers won when, because of the nature of the soil, the basement slab cracked. This in turn created a physical distortion in the upper floors so that the doors jammed and cracks appeared in the walls.

A MINNESOTA cooperative engaged in the business of buying, selling and storing grain won judgment against a contractor-lumber company which built a grain storage facility for it. Due to inappropriate material and faulty design, the building collapsed, according to the CCH case rundown appearing in its products liability reports.

A 16-month-old boy, whose parents were the lessees of a three-year-old house in New Jersey, was allowed to rely on the strict liability doctrine in his action against the builder-vendor of his premises to recover for severe burns sustained because water coming from faucets was at the dangerously high temperature of 190-210 degrees.

THE BUILDER-SELLER of a house in Oklahoma was liable for water damage to the floor coverings caused by deficiencies in construction. There was an implied warranty, the court maintained, that the house would be reasonably fit for human dwelling, since, at the time of purchase, the house was still in the course of construction.

CCH noted other recent decisions against home builders and contractors on this front as follows: a California builder was found liable for loss of land due to a landslide; Kentucky homeowners recovered from the builder for a leaky basement; a South Carolina builder-seller was found liable for a buyer's home-connected injuries; a Texas home buyer was allowed to sue the builder for breach of warranty; Vermont buyers of a new house had a good cause of action against their builder-seller when their one-year-old house cracked and bulged due to deficiencies in the foundation's construction; and a Washington fireplace builder was found liable to an apartment house owner for smoke damage caused by an inadequate flue liner.

CCH NOTED THAT the prevailing rule is that no warranty of fitness arises from the sale of improved real property, the reason advanced being that real estate transactions would become chaotic if sellers and builders were subjected to liability at some indeterminate future time after they had parted with ownership and control over the premises.

However, CCH added, this is not the case with new real property, and it's here where the growing roster of court decisions are favoring the new home owner.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Nobody's home! Mommy's at her feminist meeting, and daddy's at his masculinist meeting!"

Miss Goy Weds William Kane

MRS. WILLIAM J. KANE

Miss Sharon Goy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Goy, Dixon, became the bride of William Joseph Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Kane, Chicago, at 2 p.m. Saturday in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Rev. William Boland, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring wedding when vows were spoken by the couple before an altar trimmed with arrangements of Easter lilies, and organ accompaniment was provided by John Stanley Smith as Joseph O. Moore sang "I Believe," "Song of Ruth" and "Pans Angelicus."

Organza Gown

Ivory silk organza fashioned the bride's wedding gown, designed with an empire bodice featuring a V-shaped insertion of reembodyered Alencon lace and long, full sleeves ending in wide lace cuffs. A satin band encircled the gown's waistline, and a similar band with an attached flounce of lace accented the hemline of her floor-length skirt, which extended into a chapel-length train. A contoured lace headpiece held her full-length illusion veil topped by tiers of blusher veiling, and as she was escorted to the altar by her father, she carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with a handkerchief carried by her great-aunt, Mrs. Margaret Murray, Freeport, on her wedding day in 1914.

Miss Barbara Brown, Chicago, the bride's maid of honor, was attired in an empire dress of mint-green chiffon and ivory silk styled with a neckline bow and long illusion sleeves, and complemented by an ivory beret.

Identical costumes were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Ann Kane, Chicago, and Miss Denise Malach, Sublette, and each attendant carried a single long-stemmed ivory rose.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Goy selected a coat and dress ensemble of mint-green tulle and a white rose corsage, and the bridegroom's mother chose a yellow brocade dress worn with a matching coat and a headpiece of yellow roses.

James C. Hayes, South Bend, Ind., attended Mr. Kane as best man, and participating as groomsmen were Edwin A. Jerome II and Joseph J. Morin, South Bend.

Emerald Hill Country Club was the setting for a reception and buffet following the service when assistants included Miss Jacalyn Linko, Miss Marilyn Linko, Miss Yvonne Goy and Miss Susanne Kane.

To Europe

When the newlyweds, who will be residing at 7340 N. Damen Ave., Chicago, departed on a wedding trip to Europe, where they will tour Lisbon, Madrid and Rome, the bride was wearing a rust and white two-piece knit dress. A graduate of St. Anthony's Hospital School of Nursing, Rockford, she earned a B.S.N. degree at the University of Illinois Medical Center, Chicago, and is employed as an assistant head nurse at Evanston Hospital, Evanston.

Mr. Kane received B.S. and M.S. degrees in engineering science at the University of Notre Dame, and is associated with the Schmit-Kane Corporation in Chicago.

Dear Ann.

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: You have repeatedly advised women to tell a fiancé about a previous marriage, out-of-wedlock child or prison record. What about an abortion?

I'm going with a fine man who wants to marry me. He knows I'm not a virgin but he doesn't know I've had an abortion. I've already paid a big price for my mistake and I don't want to pay any more. My mother says I shouldn't tell him because it might spoil my chances. I think I should. Yes or no? — Bernadine.

Dear Bernadine: Tell him. If it spoils your chances figure it as part of "the price." This sort of information should not be withheld. Moreover, if you become pregnant after marriage your doctor will surely ask about your gynecological history. You can't fool him. The abortion will be part of your medical record and records are never 100 per cent secure.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband belongs to a poker club. There are nine members. All the men are married to women who seem to be in good health. Of the nine men, only four invite the club to their homes to play.

Speaking as a wife who has washed plenty of coffee cups, beer glasses, ashtrays, and made dozens of sandwiches, I resent the free-loaders. The club has been meeting every week for two years and some of its wives think we are getting a raw deal. My husband says the four guys don't mind having the five to their homes so often. Why should they? Their wives do the work. What do you think should be done? — Too Often The Hostess

Dear Hostess: The time to have established the ground rules was when the club was formed. It is unfair that four members should repeatedly play host to five others. Your husband, or one of the other suckers, should suggest that each member take his turn as host — starting now.

Dear Ann Landers: Thelma, a woman I work with, bought a lovely knitted dress on a trip to Canada but her husband didn't like it on her. Thelma and I are the same size. She asked me if I would like the dress. I was overwhelmed by her thoughtfulness and said I'd certainly like to try it on and see if it fits.

The next day Thelma brought the dress, we went to the ladies lounge and I tried it on. It fit perfectly. I told her I was thrilled and thanked her. She then said, "You misunderstood. I didn't mean it as a gift. This dress cost me $110. I will sell it to you for $75." I had a hard

Miss Streit, Dale Hardy Plan Wedding

MISS JANET STREIT

LA MOILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd N. Streit, Rt. 2, announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Janet Rose, to Dale O. Hardy, son of the Lester O. Hardys, Amboy.

Miss Streit, a 1964 graduate of Amboy High School, is employed as assistant cashier at the First National Bank, Amboy, and her fiancé, who served four years in the Air Force following his 1963 graduation from Amboy High School, is presently employed by Donald Brown, Dixon.

Their wedding is planned for April 25.

time concealing my shock. I told her I had indeed misunderstood and that I could not afford the dress.

I've never sold a thing to a friend in my life. The idea offends me. Now Thelma looks the other way when we pass in the hall. This incident has made her uncomfortable, and I'll never feel the same about her. Am I wrong or is she? — One Friendship Loused Up

Dear One: This is not a matter of right or wrong, but rather a lash-up in communication. Thelma should have made it clear at the outset that she wanted to sell the dress. You, on the other hand, should have asked if she meant the dress as a gift instead of assuming so.

It is unwise to offer to sell used apparel to friends. If a friend asks if you'd be willing to sell something, it's another matter.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1970, Publisher's Hall Syndicate)

Here is a hand that decided a recent match between teams captained by Exuberant Ed and Cautious Cal. Both captains sat South and at each table the West player led the deuce of spades.

In line with his policy of going out after everything that wasn't nailed down, Ed let the spade lead come around toward his nine. East intercepted with the jack and returned the deuce of diamonds. Ed's nine was covered by West's 10, which was allowed to hold the trick. The king of diamonds was also allowed to hold and at this point West led another spade.

Nothing daunted Ed. He played dummy's 10, only to see East win with the king. The defense had four tricks in and East completed Ed's downfall by playing the six of clubs. Ed had to take the club finesse also, since otherwise his queen and jack of hearts would be shut out forever and, when that fourth finesse lost, he was one down.

Cautious Cal wasn't going to go for any of those finesesses. He could see nine tricks against any combination of cards and went right after them.

The first three tricks went to dummy's ace of spades and ace-king of hearts. Then he led the queen of clubs and did try that finesse without really caring how it came out. It lost, of course, but Cal collected one spade, four hearts, one diamond and three clubs for a total of nine tricks.

We rather hate to chronicle this triumph of super conservatism. Somehow or other, we think that we would have gone down just as Ed did. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Haywood Proves Worth

By United Press International
Spencer Haywood is worth every cent of that $1.9 million contract he signed with the Denver Rockets.

With Haywood leading the way, the Rockets came from last to first place in the Western Division of the American Basketball Association, finally clinching the title Friday night with a 145-141 victory over the Miami Floridians.

Actually the Rockets had clinched the title a few hours earlier when Washington was eliminated from the race by losing to the Pittsburgh Pipers 132-124. In the only other ABA game, the Carolina Cougars whipped the Indiana Pacers 116-107.

Scores 44

Haywood, who leads the league in scoring and rebounding, scored 44 points to lead Denver over the Floridians. It marked one of the most amazing comebacks in pro basketball history as the Rockets came from last place midway in the season to take the title.

Helping the Denver cause was Larry Jones with 20 points and Jeff Congdon with 21. Bon Freeman led Miami with 42 points and Don Diddle added 37.

Washington, the only team in the ABA with a chance of catching Denver, was eliminated by the Pipers in a penalty-plagued game that saw both coaches ejected for arguing with officials. Six technical fouls were called, and Washington coach Al Bianchi was thrown out 10 minutes into the first half and Pittsburgh coach Buddy Jeannette was ejected with 3:20 left in the game.

Rookie John Brisker sparked the Pipers Pipers with 45 points and Rick Barry paced Washington with 39 points. It was the Caps' first loss to Pittsburgh in six games this season.

Hopes Alive

The Cougars kept their hopes alive for a second-place finish in the Eastern Division with their victory over Indiana. Bob Verga was high scorer for Carolina with 32 points, followed by Doug Moe with 19 and Gene Little with 17. Roger Brown, who scored 31 points, led Indiana to a 20-9 first period lead, but the Cougars took a 30-28 lead midway in the second quarter and held on.

Kentucky is second in the Eastern Division, three games ahead of Carolina. Washington holds a one-game lead over Dallas in the West for second place.

Orioles 4-0; Giants Top Reds

White Sox Drop Brewers

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

For all the Baltimore Orioles' dazzling defense and explosive offense, the key to winning a second straight American League title is pitching.

That's the opinion of both Frank Robinson and Brooks Robinson, who feel that the pennant hopes of both the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox will stand or fall on their pitching.

"The Tigers can put eight good men on the field and so can the Red Sox," Brooks said Friday night. "But pitching is a question mark."

"We all have good lineups," chimed in Frank. "But our pitching looks more solid to me."

Magnificent, rather than solid, is the right word to describe the Orioles' pitching in the first four games of the season. The Orioles have won four straight while their pitchers have allowed a total of seven runs and 17 hits. In the four games, the Orioles have outscored their foes, 27-7.

The Orioles made it four in a row when they beat the Tigers, 3-2, in 10 innings Friday night. Dick Hall, 39, a relief pitcher, picked up the victory with four innings of two-hit shutout hurling.

Brooks Robinson singled with two out in the bottom of the 10th to score Frank Robinson from second base with the winning run. Frank walked to lead off the inning and went to second on Boog Powell's grounder.

The Boston Red Sox downed the Washington Senators, 4-1, the California Angels beat the Kansas City Royals, 11-7, and the Chicago White Sox shaded the Milwaukee Brewers, 5-4, in the other American League games.

Carl Yastrzemski collected two doubles and a single and scored the decisive run on a wildpitch by Joe Coleman as Jim Lonborg won his first game for the Red Sox since last

Legion Practice Sunday

The American Legion will begin practice for the 1970 baseball season at 2 p.m. Sunday at Reynolds Field. Any high school boy from Dixon, Oregon, Franklin Grove and Ashton is eligible.

Co-managers this season are Dave Reisinger and Jim Grygiel.

July 27. Mike Epstein hit his second homer of the season for the Senators.

Alex Johnson's bases-filled two-run double highlighted a five-run fifth inning which enabled the Angeles to beat the Royals. Roger Repoz homered for the Angeles and Ed Kirkpatrick drove in three runs for the Royals with a homer and a double.

Bobby Knoop homered to snap a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning and the White Sox added two more in the inning on a double by Walt Williams and singles by Luis Aparicio and Carlos May. Wilbur Wood pitched the last 1 2-2 innings to save rookie Jerry Janeski's victory. The loss was the third in a row for the Brewers.

'Healthy' Sox Rookie Wins Debut

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox traded a big arm to the Boston Red Sox, but they may have gotten a good pitcher in return, disguised as a health nut rookie.

The first time he ever appeared in a major league ball park, Jerry Janeski Friday hurled the first White Sox victory of the season with an uphill 5-4 decision over the Milwaukee Brewers.

"The main reason I wasn't nervous was because there wasn't a big crowd," said Janeski, a second-hand contribution by the Red Sox in a multiple winter deal which sent Sox pitching star Gary Peters to Boston.

The Red Sox gave up aneski after pitcher Billy Farmer, traded to Chicago in the Peters deal, showed up sore-armed in the White Sox spring camp.

Janeski, whose locker looks like a drug store with four different kinds of health pills he gulps daily, had to yield to fireman Wilbur Wood in the eighth inning. But he showed enough stuff to warrant his status as No. 3 starter behind Tommy John and Joe Horlen.

The 6-foot-4, 23-year-old right-hander shook off a shaky start in which he faced eight batters in Milwaukee's two run first. He struck out seven before surrendering a 5-2 lead to Wood after issuing his only two walks with one out in the eighth.

An English major still enrolled at California State of Los Angeles, Janeski is a physical fitness buff. He has quit the 70 daily pushups formerly on his health program. But he takes concentrated liver pills, wheat germ pills, vitamin pills and pills which "loosen the muscles."

The latter, called panthothenic acid supplement, is supposed to ward off bursitis, says Janeski, who had a 15-10 record for Louisville last season.

Callison Homer Lifts Cubs

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

What more does a guy have to do?

That's what Ron Hunt of the San Francisco Giants is undoubtedly wondering today after he sparked his team to victory in a pinch-hitting role Friday night for the third successive game.

Hunt's problem is he isn't starting. After being a regular since he broke into the majors in 1963 with the New York Mets, Hunt has been relegated to the bench this season by new manager Clyde King in favor of Tito Fuentes, a sure-handed but light-hitting second baseman.

But instead of sulking, Hunt has been out to prove that King made the wrong decision. His timely hits have sparked the Giants to victory in their last three games.

On A Hot Streak

On Wednesday night Hunt drove home the tying run against Houston with a pinch single during a three-run eighth inning; on Thursday night he ignited a five-run eighth inning against the Astros with a leadoff pinch single; and Friday night he hit a pinch double in the eighth inning and scored the winning run to give the Giants a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

In other National League action Friday, Atlanta blanked Houston, 5-0, San Diego whipped Los Angeles, 7-2, Philadelphia shut out Pittsburgh, 2-0; St. Louis defeated the Mets, 7-3, and Chicago nipped Montreal, 2-1.

Into The Record Book

Hank Aaron hit the 13th grand slam homer of his career and George Stone hurled a six-hitter as the Braves spoiled the Astros' home opener. Aaron thus moved into 10th place on the all-time hit list with 2,963.

Nate Colbert belted a two-run homer and Dave Roberts retired 18 in a row in a relief appearance as the Padres extended the Dodgers' losing streak to four games.

Southpaw Woody Fryman of the Phillies pitched no-hit ball for 7 1-3 innings against his former Pittsburgh teammates and got all the batting support he needed from Deron Johnson, who belted a two-run homer.

The Cardinals scored all their runs in the third against the Mets, collecting six hits and sending 12 men to bat. Jte Torre doubled home two runs and winning pitcher George Culver tripled home a pair as the Cardinals routed Jim McAndrew. A record crowd of 47,568 turned out.

Johnny Callison cracked a two-run homer with two out in the ninth to lift the Cubs to victory and spoil the Expos' home opener.

Triton Hands Redmen 3-0 Baseball Setback

RIVER GROVE —The Sauk Valley baseball team dropped its third decision, in as many tries, Friday when it succumbed to Triton Junior College, 3-0.

The hometowners picked up their first run in the first inning as they benefited from a wild pitch and a passed ball sandwiched around a single. The winners scored again in the second frame and wound up the scoring with a run in their half of the eighth inning. The Redmen, rather potent at bat the day before in a double-header with Clinton Community College, were unable to hit as well as had been expected, coming up with just three hits off of Triton hurler Tom Fultz.

Cook Signs

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Doug Cook of Davidson, a 6-foot-6 forward, Friday signed a contract with the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association.

Cook, who averaged 14.5 points per game during his varsity career, was the Royals' third round draft choice.

All-Star Site?

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Francis D'Male, president of the Cincinnati Reds, said Friday the All-Star game may have to be shifted from Cincinnati this year if the Reds' new Riverfront Stadium is not ready for occupancy by June 30.

The Reds were informed Friday that the stadium would not be ready for permanent use before August. The All-Star game is scheduled for July 14.

Friday's Stars

NEW YORK —Bobby Lee, 136, Washington, D.C., knocked out Bobby Melendez, 136, New York, 9.

a few miscues that beat us." Collecting the hits for Sauk Valley were first baseman Lloyd Henry, shortstop Tom Love and second baseman Steve Wagenecht. Jones, who went the distance on the mound, struck out six batters and walked five, while surrendering five hits.

The Redmen were slated to play Kishwaukee College in a double-header at Rochelle today at 1 p.m. and open their home season Monday at Platte Park in Sterling at 3:30 p.m.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE M-590: Maude B., aged 36, is a Sunday School superintendent.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "our church is in a small community of 1,500 population."

"And our Sunday School attendance stays about the same, year after year."

"So I chafe and feel frustrated because my husband is an insurance salesman where new and higher goals are set for the men each January."

"Why can't we inject similar competition into our Sunday Schools?"

"Is there anything immoral about applying our American go-getter sales principles to our churches?"

God Likes Competition

God apparently relishes competition, yet some of our churches have decided it is being warlike and un-Christian.

As a lifelong Sunday School teacher, I have always found that contests between Sunday School classes (intramural) or between neighboring churches, added zest and zoomed attendance!

Most Americans, especially of the younger age brackets, like to compete.

Eunuchs, capons and other emasculated creatures avoid conflict and competition!

Maybe our churches could stand some shots of testosterone to make them virile, for too many church leaders and stodgy clergymen are sissy.

Our public schools build up fervor and school spirit by athletic contests and rigorous competition.

Jesus apparently liked such competition, for in his parable of the three men with the talents, he strongly approved the five-talent and the three-talent men who went out into the competitive business world and added to their wealth.

But He severely indicted the diffident man who was too timid and docile to match wits with others.

Jesus also showed his Apostles how to catch more fish!

So you can zoom your Sunday School attendance by dividing them into two groups or by pitting one class against another.

Make your contests simple to tally, so you don't waste the valuable donated time of your teachers in computing your weekly scores.

Thus, give one point for every penny in the class offering. And allot five points for every member present, plus an extra 10 points for every newcomer brought to Sunday School.

Then portray the contest in a visual manner, as by having a transcontinental auto or airplane race, with wires on which you attach toy automobiles or airplanes.

Move the racing vehicles according to the total point-score.

And attach some hazards, so let the losers of the monthly competition treat the winners to a wiener bake or swim party, etc.

Then launch a new contest the very next Sunday after the former competition ended!

For contests in Sunday School are like advertisements by your local department store, namely, one week's ad can't be expected to keep customers coming all the other 51 weeks of the year!

So some stores run new ads every week.

Yet some stodgy clerics have argued with me as follows:

"Dr. Crane, after the contest ended, our attendance soon dropped down again, so why have a contest?"

Well, keep contests running steadily, 52 weeks in the year, as department stores schedule their ads!

Send for my booklet, "How to Pep Up Sunday School," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. It helps get your church off of "dead center."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Students Riot
PARIS (UPI) — Police used tear gas in Paris and Grenoble to break up demonstrations by students who showered them with rocks and bottles Friday.

The student demonstrations followed an announcement to Parliament from Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas about a government bill to curb street and university violence.

Once again, we'd like to use this column to salute the American Red Cross and the wonderful job it is doing for servicemen through out the world.

Wherever you find GI's, you'll find a Red Cross representative on hand to help them with whatever personal problems that might come up.

If mail from home is slow to come, the Red Cross representative will wire the hometown chapter to find out if all is well with the soldier's family. It's usually the Red Cross representative who breaks the news to a soldier when there is a new arrival in his family. And it's the same Red Cross rep who arranges a speedy trip home for a soldier when there is a serious illness in his immediate family.

Smells Good
Since we like to keep you up-to-date on psychological warfare methods, we thought we'd tell you what the psy-war experts of the First Infantry Division are doing in Vietnam. Where intelligence reports indicate that the Viet Cong are running short of food, the psy-war unit drops, from helicopters, plastic bags with white surrender flags soaked in a local and very pungent fish sauce. The concept is that the smell of the food will induce the hungry enemy to use the white flag and surrender.

High Enlistment Rate
I'll bet you didn't realize that almost half the people who enter the Army do so as enlistees and not draftees. During the past fiscal year, 44 percent of those who donned Army greens were enlistees.

One reason for this high enlistment rate is the vocational training available to enlistees. We have lots of information on the various kinds of vocational training available to young men and women who enlist. So why not stop by our office for details?

The Army Green

—That the first Medal of Honor was awarded to a soldier in 1861 for heroism against the Indians in what is now Arizona?

—That today's typical member of the Women's Army Corps is a high school graduate from a small town, single, close to 20 years old, and she joined for educational training?

That the Army offers a two year enlistment option for men?

Vietnam Record

While many men stationed in Vietnam count the days left till they will leave for home, there's one soldier who does a reverse count. He's keeping track of the days and minutes he's spending in Vietnam, and if he gets his way, he will remain in the Southeast Asian country another two years.

Sgt. Robert Sherer of the 11th Brigade, 23rd Infantry Division, has spent a total of 32 months in Vietnam since June 1966. "That's near 1,400,000 minutes," according to Sgt. Sherer. The record, held by another member of the Brigade is 2,073,600 minutes. With 1,440 minutes in a day, Sgt. Sherer figures he has less than 500 days to go to break the record, and he's determined to stay on until he does.

Military Vehicle?

If you see a flash of green go by on a motorcycle, don't be surprised. It's just an Army Recruiter by the name of SFC "Bill" Struben. Sgt. Struben is a veteran of 26 years military service and three wars. He just can't seem to get adjusted to the conventional automobile, and says that for spring time a two wheeler is the only way to travel. Anybody want a drag?

LOCAL UNION NO. 172 S.C.M.E.

To Whom It May Concern:

The officers and members of Local Union No. 172 AFSCME are greatly concerned in regard to the intent of state government to discharge employees at the D.S.S. who are vitally needed to care for those not capable to care for themselves. As employees of the D.S.S. we understand the situation for what it is, not what certain state officials say it is. We are no less than amazed to learn that "food and clothing" is not considered important to direct patient care by the present state government. We wonder if the same officials would feel the same way if they had loved ones incapable of taking care of themselves, confined in a state facility which was faced with mass discharges of employees? Let's tell it like it is. Something is radically wrong. When any state government intends to discharge employees from facilities which are already understaffed. Maybe Mental Health is no longer important.

JOB SECURITY

The degree of knowledge some of our state officials seem to "have not" in regard to the vast area of problems we all face who are employed in the D.M.H., is nothing short of amazing. We have state officials who have the "degree of understanding" required to separate "Patient care from adequate employee coverage". Isn't it wonderful we have this quality of government? How many of us would think we were "overall healthy" if we suddenly found ourselves without "food and clothing"? Well, we have state officials who have gone on record as stating, "Dietary and Laundry Employees will be discharged. However, this in no way affects patient care". Well, Jolly! Jolly! I wonder if these most knowledgeable they be such an expert if they had loved ones confined in a state school or institution? We guess it is all in accordance to which side you are on as to how the situation is viewed. We (Local 172) think we know how the state employees feel when they face "discharge". We also think we understand the feelings when we are denied a minimum starting salary of $400.00 a month and at the same time see where "the wheels" have their salaries doubled. Wonder how it would be to be on the side of the fat cats who earn $44,000 a year. Why should they care about the $332.00 a month employee.

RESPONSIBILITY

Local Union No. 172 of the State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, has always tried to be a responsible organization. We feel we have a responsibility to the community, the D.S.S., and our membership. It sometimes seems as if we are too responsible. It often seems as if management understands nothing but "strong action". Why? Local No. 172 has been condemned on several occasions when we have taken strong action. In fact, we have been called "irresponsible" because of planned sick calls. At this point, we are somewhat confused. The present state government has done very little to help the employees. What they are presently planning will be disastrous. If Local No. 172 would call a sick call in protest of the senseless discharge of employees, we wonder if state government would view our act as responsible. Is it responsible to discharge employees in any department? Is it "a responsible act" to make a determination to discharge Laundry & Dietary employees? Is it a responsible statement to state "Food and clothing have nothing to do with Direct Patient Care?" Maybe we (Local 172) have always misunderstood the meaning of responsibility. Again! Maybe we could learn from state government. If they want militancy, they should be accommodated. They will be if one union member is fired AT THE DIXON STATE SCHOOL BECAUSE OF A LEAN BUDGET. (WHAT LEAN BUDGET?)

LOOKING

By E. G.

AROUND

Thoughts on the Oscar Awards... eight commercials — plus a running news insertion of a school board election — plus all the unnecessary goop and goulash didn't make it the outstanding event it was cracked-up-to-be... Bob Hope, as usual, was great — just great... if he thought "The Sterile Cuckoo" was the life of Tiny Tim, wonder who would get honorable mention if the producers of that movie would come out with a sequel, "The Fertile Canary"... glad that John Wayne came in first... glad that "Raindrops Keep Fallin' On My Head" won the award for the best song... a sprightly, catchy, danceable tune... Myrna Loy was beautiful — ditto for Elizabeth Taylor... most of the other nominees looked like something from out of a horror movie — especially Candice Bergen and Raquel Welch... Richard Burton looked pouty and unhappy... maybe he didn't know he was on camera — but just because he couldn't be a star he didn't have to be a cloud... Fred Astaire was marvelous... 70 years young — trim and slim — what a man!... haven't seen "Midnight Cowboy" but have yet to hear anyone say it was a great movie... seamy and filthy, yes... but not great... and Sinatra has improved with age — what with putting on some weight and a hair transplant.

So Nixon's second choice for the Supreme Court has been rejected... according to articles in numerous publications, the acceptance or rejection of the two appointments boils down to whether the senator casting his vote is for or against the philosophy of the present court... a socialistic philosophy vs the philosophy of free enterprise... a court that has decided Communists do not have to register as being Communist and who can work in our defense plants... a court that has decreed a lawyer could not be refused the right to practice law because he refuses to admit whether or not he is a Communist... a court that has declared that security risks could not be dismissed from their jobs unless they were in "sensitive positions"... a court that prefers catering to Communists, criminals and other subversives rather than to freedom-loving, law-abiding Americans.

As Human Events points out... "look who's questioning Carswell's qualifications... first that pillar of virtue and integrity, Sen. Edward Kennedy... the hero of Chappaquiddick, who was chucked out of Harvard for cheating and who tried to foist on the federal bench Francis X. Morrissey — a Kennedy crony — and an American Bar Association reject... Bayh of Indiana, who called Carswell a racist, who himself was a member of a fraternity limited to white Christian males... Hubert Humphrey, who said Carswell lacked sensitivity toward minorities, who while he was a senator, lived for 16 years in a house with a restrictive racial clause."

"A vote against Carswell is, in our opinion (Human Events), tantamount to a vote encouraging criminals and political acts of terrorism. If your senator wants that on his conscience, so be it..." "the war on crime can never be won so long as the current liberal majority on the court continues to unchain criminals on the tinniest of technicalities"... it is a question of whether the various senators "keep torpedoing conservative jurists who are likely to endorse — rather than strike down — reasonable anti-subversive laws."

Senator Percy voted against both nominations but according to John Elmer, Chicago Tribune, Percy urges Con-Con to establish a department of "environment and population planning"... Percy says "environment and population control have become such major issues that if we do not take reasonable steps we will not have to deal very long with other problems"... Percy asserts top priority be given to "population planning within government."

What, exactly, does he mean by "population planning within government?"... these four words could cover a multitude of things... are we to be segregated into compounds according to sex... will the head of the environment and population planning department decide who is to be allowed to bear children and who isn't... Hitler, until stopped, carried out a form of "population planning within government"... Percy calls for "action to halt pollution — that a clean environment is an inalienable right of all citizens"... pollute means to defile, desecrate, make filthy, corrupt... the laws handed down by the present Supreme Court have been favorable to pollution... do we not have a right to have judges who will not coddle criminals and subversives?

"Now is the time for all good men... to file their income tax again... get out a ream of paper — pencils, pen and pad... figure deductions, gross tax, net tax, sur tax... add, add add..." April 15th should be designated "National Clean-Up Day," for that is the day we're all taken to the cleaners... this year, according to the Tax Foundation, the average American will work two hours and 34 minutes in each 8-hour day to meet his tax liabilities; a gain of 8 minutes over last year.

Moss Hits Medicare Slice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate Aging Committee's long term care subcommittee, has accused the Nixon administration of a "step by step dismantling of the Medicare nursing home program."

In a Senate speech Friday, Moss criticized administration rulings that bar medicare payments for "custodial" patients who are not expected to recover, that "sharply narrowed the definition of 'skilled care' eligible for Medicare," and that changed physical therapy policy so that it "flies in the face of the policy of rehabilitation."

DO YOU REALLY KNOW HOW TO DRIVE A NAIL?

No. 1
Of A Series

When you drive nails close to the end of a board, the board often splits.

To keep this from happening, blunt the nail point a little with your hammer. A couple of light taps will do the job.

Now, when you drive the nail into the wood it will punch out a hole for itself instead of spreading the wood fibers apart, causing a split. Try it the next time you are putting around. It really works.

SON OF GARLIC—Rising up from a stack of mail, just to the left of our autographed photo of Frank Zappa, comes the unmistakable sense of garlic. Sure enough, Wild Garlic, the noted Pittsburgh rock outfit, strikes again. This time with a way to say I love you that Jani Gardner didn't think of. Writes The Garlic: "One way to say I love you is to say,

"You, are a golden chalice in a world filled with paper cups," so to The Garlic goes a copy of Jani's book, "365 More Ways to Say 'I Love You'." It leaves you breathless.

GROUP SCOOP—This being National Take a Lizard to Lunch Week, get hold of Jamul, an LP by a group by the same name on the Lizard label. Test played it on a couple of musical types and they thought Jamul sounded like a cross between Steppenwolf and Credence Clearwater, which is pretty nice company. Cuts we like best were "Sunrise over Jamul," "Movin' to the Country" and "Hold the Line," all written by Ron Armstrong, a member of the outfit. Worth looking for.

SOMETHING BIG — In the wind for Youth Beat readers and will tell you all about it next week. It's a special kind of contest where we will honor teens from all over the country who have taken the time to get involved. In what? Tell you about it next time around.

NEWS KAZOOS—Been getting all kinds of mail about the fate of Bronx Kazoos now that the Toronto Peace Festival has been shot down in flames, leaving 10 lrsay's windjammers with no place to toot. Word has it that Blue Kazoos, the British blowers who will be doing their thing in Australia the July 4 weekend, are trying to get Bronx Kazoos added to the bill there, with no success so far. Sound is catching on, though, with the 101 Kazoo Band being the latest to make the scene playing "Electric Jungle Music."

BOOK REPORT — Required reading for everybody headed for or now in college should be "Is the Library Burning?" Roger Rapoport and Laurence Kirshbaum (who are 23 and 25) put it together after a yearlong tour of college campuses.

HAVING A BALL—The beloved Frisbie lives on forever, of course, but it seems that hardly anybody is going anywhere without a Nerf ball these days. Gotta admit this one fakes us out, but everybody's tossing them all over the landscape, so they must be for real. Even got one myself. Just as good indoors as out.

NEWS AND REVIEWS — What with Rolling Stone making it very large these days, Crawdaddy, one of the first rock gazettes (which went under awhile back), has come back under the grave to take a shot at the grave. Could make it big, if it's as well done as Rolling Stone, but that remains to be seen. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Week in Review

By DOUG ADERSON

United Press International
Senate rejection this week of President Nixon's second nominee for the Supreme Court seat vacated by Abe Fortas forced the President to abandon hope of appointing a Southerner to the court at this time.

The Senate voted 51 to 45 against the elevation of Federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the high court. Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., the Southerner who was Nixon's first choice for the Supreme Court vacancy, was rejected by the Senate four months ago.

This week's vote, coming just a week after Nixon had declared that his prerogatives as President were at stake in the Carswell nomination, was regarded as a serious setback for the administration.

The President was unable even to count on the full support of his own Republican party in the vote. Sens. Margaret Chase Smith, R-

Maine, and Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., voted against the nomination and their "no's" were considered crucial in swinging the decision against Carswell.

The President, evidently angry, told newsmen he still hopes to fill the Supreme Court vacancy with a strict constructionist but that his next nominee will not be a Southerner.

He accused the Senate of "regional discrimination" and said it is evident that the upper house "as presently constituted" will not approve the appointment of a Southern justice.

Around the world:

Osaka, Japan — A series of gas explosions at a subway-construction site started fires that turned a downtown block of this world-fair city into an inferno during the evening rush. At least 74 persons were killed and more than 280 injured.

Cairo—Egypt charged that Israeli warplanes killed 30 schoolchildren and a teacher in an attack on a Nile Delta village. Israeli spokesmen said the target under attack was an army camp and speculated that the children were undergoing some form of pre-military training.

Bradenton, Fla. — Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. took over the Manatee County school system to block a court-ordered busing plan for integration of the schools. U.S. Attorney John Briggs vowed he will wrest control of the system from the governor despite the cordon of state troopers deployed by Kirk.

vote. The measure was returned to the state Senate, which had already passed it, because of an Assembly amendment requiring that abortions be performed within the first 24 weeks of pregnancy unless the mother's life is in danger. Concurrence appeared likely.
